The legal bit

- The donors will donate the land using a mechanism known as permanent endowment. This means that the land cannot be sold and that will be passed on to another organisation if we cannot look after it any longer.
- Brighton Permaculture Trust is a charitable company and legally cannot accept donations by permanent endowment.
- We therefore need to set up a charitable trust to receive the land. Brighton Permaculture Trust can then manage the trust and be its sole "corporate director".

Objects

4. The charity's objects ('objects') are specifically restricted to the following:

4.1. To promote sustainable development for the benefit of the public by:

4.1.1. the preservation, conservation and the protection of the environment and the prudent use of resources;

4.1.2. the relief of poverty and the improvement of the conditions of life in socially and economically disadvantaged communities;

4.1.3. the promotion of sustainable means of achieving economic growth and regeneration.

4.2. To advance the education of the public in subjects relating to sustainable development and the protection, enhancement and rehabilitation of the environment and to promote study and research in such subjects provided that the useful results of such study are disseminated to the public at large.

Sustainable development means 'development which meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs.'
